The Overseas Fieldwork Internship is designed to help students learn by experience, make connections between their classroom learning and the workplace, and prepare for their careers.

A typical schedule for the fall and spring semesters is 12-15 hours per week. A student can earn credit for two 3-credit internships; however, the content of each must be different.

Prerequisites:

- 3) Fluent English and Spanish (3000-level Spanish required).
- 4) Meet all internship requirements as listed on the Career Services webpage.
- 5) Must be a declared Political Science major; prior successful completion of 12 credits of POLS courses, including POLS-2000.

Course Registration:

Students must submit all required documents as outlined on the Career Services webpage to the Internship Coordinator. Students must then obtain an internship and meet with the Faculty Director to complete the Internship Agreement Form (available on the Career Services webpage). Upon acceptance in an internship position, students will be enrolled in the course.

Any student who qualifies for special accommodations, due to presence of a disability, and feels it necessary to utilize them in order to meet the requirements of this course as outlined on the syllabus, should contact Counseling/Disability Services. Please phone the office at 91 554-5858 (Ext. 230), or send an e-mail to disabilityservices-madrid@slu.edu. Students may also stop by the Counseling/Disabilities Services office. Confidentiality will be observed in all inquiries.

POLS-3918 and the Five Dimensions of the SLU Experience: Reflective of its mission, Saint Louis University strives to engage its students in five interrelated dimensions contributing to the development of the whole person: 1) scholarship and knowledge, 2) intellectual inquiry and communication, 3) community building, 4) leadership and service, and 5) spirituality and values. The political science internship provides opportunity for student growth in each of these dimensions. Through their active participation in the workplace, students will gain knowledge of both a professional environment and the political science sector. They build their existing communication abilities and learn a new skill set appropriate for office dealings through interactions with their colleagues, outside agencies and clients. Actively engaged in transforming society, students develop their personal civic responsibility and their cultural competency; depending on the organization where they choose to work and their commitment to it, they may serve as men and women for others.

Course Objectives and Learning Outcomes:

1. Student Learning Objectives. During their first week on the job, students must submit their learning objectives to the Internship Coordinator, addressing their goals for the following areas in a 2-page double spaced Word document.
 - a. Professional: How do you expect this internship to help you pursue your career goals?
 - b. Civic: What political knowledge or civic skills (e.g. public speaking, writing, financial literacy, cultural competency, leadership) do you hope to obtain through this internship?
 - c. Scholarly: How do you expect your internship to relate to what you have learned as a student of international studies or political science?
 - d. Personal: Do you expect the internship to give you a greater sense of personal civic responsibility?

2. Daily Journal. Each day students will log their activities, as well as their observations and reflections about the functioning of the office (e.g. work-supervisor relations, leadership and management practices, interactions with outside agencies, groups and constituents/clients). Discuss how your work relates to what you have learned as a Political Science student. The journal entries must be emailed to the Internship Coordinator every two weeks.

3. Monthly Meeting. You will meet with the Internship Coordinator once a month to discuss your progress and your final work sample.

4. Meeting with Faculty Course Advisor. When you are at least halfway done with your internship, you must schedule a meeting with Dr. Tedesco to discuss your development in the internship. Consider what you have learned throughout your studies, how that compares to what you have experienced on the job, and how you have implemented the theories and concepts you learned in class.

At the end of the semester, students will submit:

5. Resume. Students will integrate their internship experience into a resume that also includes their professional objective(s), educational information, and other relevant experience.

6. Internship Reflection and Portfolio.
 1. Students will write a 5-7 page paper (double-spaced) that focuses on the international and social role of the organization and their own experiences and analysis. The reflection should respond to the following considerations, among others:
 - a. Analyze the effectiveness of the institution from both the organization's point of view and based on your own findings.
 1. Who is the organization trying to serve and how? What are the organization's standards for effectiveness? Does it live up to those standards?
 2. Create your own criteria to assess the organization's effectiveness. Following this criteria, in what specific ways are they successful? What obstacles do they face? Consider individual people, public opinion, local and global institutions, resources and government support.

- b. Evaluate the impact of both the service provided by the organization and your own active participation in this field.
 1. Analyze how the organization fits into civil society. Does it seem to encourage the development of "social capital?" Why or why not? How did your work encourage the development of social capital? If it did not, explain what you and the organization could do differently to make a bigger impact.
- c. Assess your work and development through the internship.
 1. Did you meet your own learning objectives by working for the organization? Why or why not? How did you apply the concepts learned in class to your work? What theories did you see in practice in the workplace? How will you apply these lessons learned as you develop in your career?
 2. Work Sample. Students must submit a sample of their work. This will vary from student to student, depending on the nature of the internship. It can be a spreadsheet, a website, a press release, a report, etc., but prior approval of the artifact by the Internship Coordinator is required. Include an explanation of the sample – explain why you created it and the process you followed.

 The final reflection project you turn in will incorporate all written work you have completed for the course (points 1-6 above).
