

Loyola and Manresa Assistantships

In awarding Loyola and Manresa Assistantships, Saint Louis University-Madrid Campus seeks to encourage its diverse graduate student population to contribute to our academic community. Assistantships are awarded based on student background, experience and interests (as expressed in the Assistantship application) and on a competitive undergraduate GPA in the proposed area of graduate study, or in a related field of specialization.

English Writing Center Assistantship

Assistants in the English Writing Center work with undergraduate students on their writing assignments as part of the Saint Louis University – Madrid Campus writing program, helping student writers to assimilate strategies and techniques learned in their writing courses. They also help students with writing assignments across the curriculum.

Spanish Tutoring Center Assistantship

Assistants in the Spanish Tutoring Center work with undergraduate students on their Spanish language questions and concerns. They also visit the Spanish language classrooms to provide further assistance.

ESL Community Program Assistantship

The ESL Community Program assistant helps the Program Director in communicating with people from the Madrid community who are interested in enrolling in the free English language classes offered by Saint Louis University in Madrid. The assistant also helps in preparing undergraduate students to teach in the Program, and ensures smooth running of the program once it is underway.

Language Exchange Program Assistantship

The Language Exchange assistant helps the Saint Louis University – Madrid Campus ESL Director in setting up and monitoring language exchanges between students of all language backgrounds (e.g. Spanish-English, Arabic-English, Chinese-Spanish, etc.).

Languages and Literature Division Research Assistantship

Division Research assistants aid in the smooth running of the Languages and Literature Division, and also help Division professors in carrying out tasks related to teaching and research.

Academic Editing Assistantship

Academic Editing assistants help in revising materials (print and electronic) issued by academic divisions and support offices, including promotional texts, academic catalogs, announcements, reports, etc.

All Assistantships involve a 5-hour a week commitment.

Revised February 2, 2011